You are looking to buy a diamond, but do not know whether to buy or not at a jeweler or online. At HustlerMoneyBlog, we strive to bring information about all your financial needs! This post will serve as a comprehensive resource and a guided course on buying diamonds online. If you are reading this, you may be on your way to buy a diamond or for an engagement ring, earrings, or just a loose diamond. Common questions would be; Should I buy a diamond online or at the store? or is it safe to buy a diamond online? At Blue Nile, its jewelry is designed and made from high quality materials and inspected to an exceptionally high standard. • Higher standard of diamond quality and certified authenticity • Get more for less and always have the best • Best price: Find a comparable diamond for less and they will match the price. Pay 20% up to 40% less than traditional jewelers know what you want When you start your jewelry journey, set a budget and decide what details are important to you. Diamonds are classified according to the four C's, a system created by the Gemological Institute of America (GIA). It is important to know where a diamond falls in each of the categories, as these qualities affect the appearance of a diamond. Online rating scales can help. The four C's include: Diamond Cut Diamond Clarity Diamond Color Diamond Quit (Weight) Look for a stone that fits within your budget, but pay attention to the four C's. If you buy based only on a lower price, you may end up with a diamond that looks duller than radiant. Checking the GIA report Perhaps the biggest fear of any online buyer is that the product description on the internet does not match the item that arrives in the mail. When it comes to diamonds, the best way to ensure that you are getting what has been described on a website is an GIA report, which contains an assessment of the four C's of the stone. Diamonds are typically shown with their unique GIA report number. While you are browsing, you can run a scan on the GIA website to confirm that the report shown with a diamond matches the GIA database. Look at your options Finally make sure that you are comfortable with your purchase. If you are afraid of making a mistake, it is recommended to work with a jeweler who looks at the stone personally, although you will probably pay more for this service. GIA suggests finding an online seller who also has a physical location where you can see the diamond. Insured shipping When you send diamonds, you send them via FedEx or UPS with tracking, insurance and a required signature. In the rare event that your stone is stolen, you won't lose a penny. But even that is unlikely. No-questions-asked return policies Legitimate jewelers care more about the customer experience than with profit. Items can be returned or exchanged within 30 days from when they were shipped, free of charge and without questions. Certified jewelers, which means you'll get a real diamond with a gemologist certificate. gemologist. may not be the case on any sketched website or with an online auction. Wherever you buy your diamond (online or in the store), it's a good idea to take the stone to an unaffiliated jeweler for an independent evaluation. Be familiar with online auctions, custody payments and recourse in case something goes wrong. Where is the best place to buy an engagement ring? For retailer Diamond Best Place To Buy Online James Allen Biggest Selection Blue Nile Best Diamond Cuts Whiteflash Be Hesitant Read customer reviews on the site and elsewhere online. Check that the diamond seller is legitimate and verify that there is a better Business Bureau accreditation. Use a credit card as your payment method for a chance to challenge the charge in case of fraud. Also, look at the return policy. You'll want to have some way to return the diamond if you change your mind. Return policies should be described on a seller's website, so read the fine print. Make sure you are familiar with an online jeweler's transportation policy. Look for companies that secure the package and require a subscription at the time of delivery. Create a budget There have always been crazy debates about how much you should spend on a diamond. Here's my honest opinion, if you're looking for an engagement ring, spend the amount you both think is a reasonable amount. Don't go buying a $20,000 ring if you're struggling to pay off your credit card debt. I'm not going to tell you to buy either. really cheap or fake. Even if you're on a budget, you can find a significant engagement ring that's not a diamond for a fraction of the cost. Whatever your engagement ring budget, keep to it and don't use credit cards to pay out slowly. Make sure that you have the money to pay it because an engagement ring is just the first of many expenses that you and your significant other will have to bear throughout your journey together through life.
